Queer Theories (QS/WGSS 462-300)

Oregon State University Ecampus

JM Floyd, Instructor

Winter Quarter 2014

Marsha P. Johnson: Stonewall Veteran and

co-founder of STAR: Street Transvestite Action Revolutionaries

This course will immerse students into both foundational and current scholarship within queer theories that interrogate constructions of power through the regulation of bodies, sexuality, gender, and nation. Topics will include histories of sexuality; forms of oppression including heterosexism, homophobia, and transphobia; resistance to oppressions; queer activism; sexuality and gender as categories of social control and representations of queer bodies in public discourse. For more information contact floydjo@onid.orst.edu.