Major Offered Through:

CORVALLIS

ECAMPUS

Southwestern Oregon Community College

Political Science

In the Political Science Program, you'll learn the ideas of great political thinkers, the causes of conflict between nations, and the details and philosophies of our legal system. You will have engaging discussions and debates from all points of view in class, with students and professors. You'll learn to think critically, write clearly and speak persuasively. You will learn the stories behind the news headlines and how to find the information to make up your own mind about diverse issues.

Our majors are also encouraged to pursue learning outside the classroom. Students can pursue internships for real world experience including working with: legislators in Salem and Washington D.C., county and state officials, government agencies, non-profit legislative advocacy organizations, law firms, and foreign embassies. Students can study the politics, society, and cultures of other countries and take study abroad trips with their professors. Majors can also pursue independent project and research opportunities with faculty.
