Team or Collaborative Efforts

- Fall 09 – 2012 West Coast lead on a national research project focusing on avoiding or mitigating conflict on the Outer Continental Shelf.
- Spring 07 – 2009 Program convener of the Human Dimensions of Wave Energy Generation research program, a series of 7 separate but related research projects all focusing on various aspects of the social, political, and cultural impacts on the region.
- Winter 06 – June 2008 Project co-designer and team member of the Fishermen Extending Salmon Recovery Information project (Hildenbrand is the lead), a project funded by OWEB using salmon disaster relief dollars, that informs the public about the connections between salmon habitat, watersheds, and salmon fishing community.
- Summer 06 – Spring 2010 Project leader of a collaborative research project: Improving Community Profiles for Oregon Fisheries and Coastal Communities. Funded by the OSU Sustainable Rural Communities Initiative, OSG, PLP, and NOAA Fisheries, this completely collaborative effort seeks to improve the Oregon fishing community profiles and to establish new methodology that can be used to do this along the West Coast and in other regions. The three research products are being actively used in planning processes (MR siting) and will soon be NOAA publications.
- Spring 06 – Spring 07 Project leader of a team of OSUES faculty (7 people) exploring the possibility of incorporating more “community education or community vitality” into the research, education, and outreach approaches and work plans of Extension faculty (report to Extension Administration on file.) This has led to an exploration of interest and funding opportunities to support an Oregon Community Vitality Initiative.
- Sept 03 – present Helped to design and launch the Scientist and Fisherman Exchange (SAFE), an educational exchange of knowledge between ocean and fisheries scientists (academic and agency) with commercial fisherman. The success of this effort has led to the replication in Hawaii (focus is primarily with recreational fisheries) and the potential replication in Alaska via NOAA Fisheries.
- Nov 03 – Sept 06 Convener of a coast-wide, 30+ member West Coast Cooperative Fisheries Research Ah Hoc group, a working group that exchanges information, plans events, and encourages action on cooperative fisheries research initiatives. Members include representatives from the Pacific Marine Conservation Council, commercial fishing industry, OSU Coastal Oregon Marine Experiment Station, NWFSC, Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife, Oregon Sea Grant, and other academic and NGO scientists.

- Aug 03 – June 06 Project leader of a collaborative effort to create an evaluation process / tool to evaluate the human dimensions side of fisheries cooperative research. Working with Carrie Pomeroy, UC Santa Cruz, and Monica Hunter, UC Davis, we are working with one project in Northern California as a test for the tool and process.
- May 03 – Nov 03 Project participant in a collaborative effort spearheaded by NMFS-NW to groundtruth fishing effort data with the fishing fleet. Working with NMFS and a small group of fishermen cooperators, we designed and conducted the “Pilot Project to Profile West Coast Fishing Effort Based on the Practical Experience of Fishermen.” This work resulted in a report and presentation to the TRC of the Habitat Committee of the PFMC (see workshops above).
- Mar 03 – June 07 Joined the management team of a Kellogg and USDA–funded collaborative project called the Community Seafood Initiative, a partnership between industry, research, and business finance, to strengthen northwest coastal communities. CSI provides opportunities to industry partners interested and committed to enhancing the value of products through product development, research, technology, and education, business marketing and capital, and support to move through the steps to get there. I serve the team as the designer of CSI “engagement process.”
- Mar 03 – August 07 Project co-leader of a NWFSC-funded project called the Port Liaison Project (see Grants section). This collaborative project (with the commercial fishing community) links the commercial fishing community knowledge and experience with funded ocean/fisheries research projects.
- Oct 02 – June 06 Project convener/participant in a new collaborative effort inspired by the publication An Investment in Trust: Communication in the Commercial Fishing and Fisheries Management Communities, Jennifer Gilden and Flaxen Conway. This effort being spearheaded by a small group of partners representing Oregon Sea Grant, the Pacific Fishery Management Council (Council), and the National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS). This “Communication Enhancement Process” exists to engage a community-wide discussion about the communication issues facing the Council and the possible strategies to address those issues. We developed an action plan and a process to encourage improvements where possible.
- May 98 – June 04 Project convener/participant in a new coalition to prepare for and implement programs to assist the fishing family business community as they face fisheries disasters. Working with others - industry groups, federal and state agencies, etc. - to get the groundfish crisis formally declared, develop a peer-based outreach program for assistance and job retraining (with JTPA/WIA), and federal and state legislators to create/provide support. This work led to multiple grant awards (see Grants section), which funded the State Groundfish Disaster Outreach Program pilot (GDOP).

- Jul 97 – Feb 00 Project coordinator/convener of the Fishing Families Coalition, a new coalition of fishing families, agency reps., and politicians working together to address health insurance issues for fishing families. Results from a coast wide survey we conducted led to: 1) a series of coastal meetings co-sponsored by the Oregon Insurance Pool Governing Board where over 30 commercial fishing families (80 lives) signed up to receive health insurance via FIHAP or the Oregon Health Plan, and 2) the development of an association plan - the West Coast Commercial Fishing Family Health Insurance Plan-- for three states, offered by Regence Blue Cross Blue Shield of Oregon; open enrollment period October 2000. Plan ultimately failed due to BCBS pull out.
- Nov 96 - 2004 Project co-leader/section team leader of multi-discipline team of Extension educators creating the Watershed Stewardship Education Program, an educational program (curriculum and pilot trainings) for watershed councils, landowners and managers, etc. This “Flagship Program” (Paul Risser, 1998) received continuing funding in 9/99 to hire a program coordinator to make this a statewide OSUES program. I continue to be involved as an author and educator.
- February 1997 Co-team leader and collaborator in the Coastal Recreation & Retirement Study, Bandon, OR.
- November 1995 Core team collaborator and moderator/presenter at the 1995 Ecosystem Workforce Forum: "Quality Jobs and Quality Ecosystem Outcomes", a two day collaboratively-planned, multi-agency-sponsored conference for agency, industry, education, and community leaders interested in the Jobs in The Woods program.
- Fall Term 1994 Planning, organizing, and presenting member of a multi-disciplinary team of OSU Faculty members (Sociology, Forest Resources, Ag & Resource Economics) that coordinated and delivered a seminar series, “Communities In Transition: Economic & Social Adjustments to Lost Farming, Fishing, and Timber-Related Jobs,” for approximately 75 upper-division undergraduate and graduate students. (Letter on file)
- May 1994 "Jobs in the Woods: A Workshop about 1994 Ecosystem Restoration Contracts on Federal Lands in the Coast Range," a collaboratively-planned, sponsored, and delivered workshop/mini-conference, Philomath, OR.
- April 1994 Member of a collaborative team that conducted a Comprehensive Management & Growth Study for Cascade Locks, OR.

- Mar 94 – April 96 Member of the SCERT of the Northwest Economic Adjustment Initiative, and the Community Impact and Ecosystem Investment subcommittees. Core team member, Ecosystem Workforce Project (a collaborative, innovative workforce and economic development model linking displaced timber workers with restoration work at family wages with training; 1994 = 1 pilot program; 1995 = 6 demonstration projects)
- October 1993 Member of a collaborative team of education/agency/ngo/community representatives that worked together to design, plan, and deliver a two day conference in October 1993 called "Partners In Change: A New Role for Timber Communities in Federal Forest Management", Oakridge, OR.
- November 1992 Member of a collaborative team that conducted a Comprehensive Management & Growth Study for Reedsport, OR.
